

Chariton Courier.

Keytesville, Mo., Saturday, Nov. 2, 1878.

STATE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR SUPREME JUDGE,
E. H. NORTON, OF PLATTE.
SUPERINTENDENT PUBLIC SCHOOLS,
R. D. SHANNON, OF BUCHANAN.
REGISTER OF LANDS,
J. E. McHENRY, OF JACKSON.
RAILROAD COMMISSIONER,
A. M. SEVIER, OF NEWTON.

FOR CONGRESS, 10TH DISTRICT,
G. F. ROTHWELL, OF RANDOLPH.
FOR STATE SENATOR, 6TH DISTRICT,
ANDREW MACKAY, OF CHARITON.

County Democratic Ticket.

For Representative,
DAVID H. HAMMONS.

For Circuit Clerk,
HARRY H. MANN.

For County Clerk,
FINIS T. DYART.

For Sheriff,
BURGESS B. DAVIS.

For Treasurer,
JEREMIAH M. HAMILTON.

For Collector,
GEORGE B. OLDHAM.

For Assessor,
THOMAS J. L. HUTCHESON.

For Prosecuting Attorney,
CASPER W. BELL.

Judge County Court at Large,
JAMES B. HYDE.

For Judge of Probate,
HENRY C. MINTER.

For Public Administrator,
CHARLES J. VIA.

For Coroner,
JAMES M. STAPLES.

Judge Western District,
JOSEPH M. MARSH.

Judge Eastern District,
JAMES L. STACY.

Vote for Rothwell.

WATER in the Missouri river is very low at present.

VOTE for the entire Democratic ticket without a scratch.

VOTE for Mackay.

OVER 50,000 bales of cotton were received at St. Louis last week.

THE Rural World says but few hogs are dying through the country with cholera.

VOTE for Gideon F. Rothwell.

VOTE for Rothwell, vote for Mackay—vote the entire Democratic ticket and be happy.

THE St. Joseph Gazette establishment is to be sold under deed of trust November 20.

VOTE for Andrew Mackay, Sr.

THE New Hampshire legislature has declared slavery a crime and provides for its punishment.

THE North Missouri Bee Keepers' Association met in convention at Concord, Callaway county, last Thursday.

VOTE for David H. Hammons.

A NEGRO was shot and killed in Warsaw, Ill., last week, in the act of robbing a grave, which was being watched.

HON. JNO. A. HOOKDAY has been nominated by the Democrats for the seat in the senate made vacant by the resignation of Jno. A. Flood.

VOTE for Harry H. Mann.

EXAMINE your ticket carefully and see that it has the names of the Democratic nominees on it before depositing it in the ballot box.

"FIFTYTHREE hundred majority for the Democratic ticket" should be the watchword of every Democrat in Chariton county from now till the polls close Tuesday evening.

VOTE for Finis T. Dyart.

A COURTS of U. S. civil engineers are making a survey of the Missouri river. They are now somewhere between Miami and Kansas City, coming down at the rate of about three miles per day.

WAR KE, a Chinaman, was recently elected insurance broker by the Board of Underwriters, of San Francisco, and some of the white business men are terribly disturbed over the event.

VOTE for Burgess B. Davis.

MR. O'NEIL has resigned as Independent candidate for congress in the 1st district, thus leaving the field to Mr. Frost, Democrat, and Mr. Metcalf, Republican, Frost's election is assured by a very large majority.

THE steamer R. W. Dugan, ran against a snag, sank, and was totally lost in the Missouri, near DeWitt, Monday last week. Two thousand sacks of wheat, a lot of hogs, and considerable other freight, was also lost. It reported well insured.

VOTE for Jeremiah M. Hamilton.

At a meeting of the army of Tennessee, in Indianapolis, Wednesday, a letter was read from Gen. Grant, in which he states that he has given up a contemplated trip around the world, and will shortly return to Paris, hence he will embark for home.

SPEAKER RANDALL spoke to a large political gathering in Philadelphia, Tuesday last week. Before he had concluded his remarks some one threw a stone at him, though without damage. This looks like free speech is in danger in the "old" Keystone state.

It is reported that the Howard association had on hand, when it closed its charitable work $800,000 of the money sent them for the relief of yellow fever sufferers. This sum, it is said, is to be equally divided between the 60 physicians under the employ of the association—$1,500 each.

VOTE for George B. Oldham.

CANNONADING is being kept up with unabating energy all along the line. Misses of shattered hopes have already begun to fly in every direction, and on Wednesday morning next, after the smoke shall have cleared away, the grand old Democratic banner will alone be seen waving proudly o're the field.

ALFRED TERRY, son of Capt. Terry, while riding on horseback to Huntsville last Tuesday, when near Sugar Creek bridge his horse became frightened and unmanageable, throwing him, breaking both bones of his left arm in two places between wrist and elbow, and dislocating elbow the of his right arm.

VOTE for Thomas J. L. Hutcheson.

THE U. S. treasury department has issued an order arranging to buy the gold production of North Carolina, which at present amounts to about $150,000 a year, but is largely increasing in amount since the order issued. Heretofore miners have been compelled to dispose of their gold at a great sacrifice.

MR. ROTHWELL and Judge DeBolt made speeches during the past week at Edinburg, Hickory Creek, Trenton, Nevada, and Lindley. Everywhere they were greeted with large and enthusiastic audiences, and we will insure the full Democratic strength of the county for Mr. Rothwell.—Grundy County Times.

VOTE for Casper W. Bell.

FIVE or six masked men entered the Manhattan Savings bank, New York, last Sunday morning, between 6 and 9 o'clock, overpowered the janitor, forced him to deliver them the keys and reveal the safe lock combination, opened the vaults, and robbed the institution of $3,000,000—$11,000 in cash, and the balance in government and local bonds.

DEMOCRATS do not by humiliated with a decreased majority Tuesday, but pull off your coat, and work for your principles and men from now till the polls close, and you will ever be proud of it, for the returns will come in giving that glorious old Democratic banner an increased majority. Work for a good and noble cause—the welfare of the people.

VOTE for James B. Hyde.

TREASURER GATES knocked the wind out of another "howl" the other day, by transferring the $206,000 deposit in the St. Joseph banks to the Bank of Commerce. He now has only $286,000 of the state's money tied up in the ring banks, and he holds two bonds of a million dollars each to secure the payment of that sum. It now looks as though Gates would be able to save the state its entire deposits with the Martins, Burns & Co.

THE supreme court of this state last Wednesday rendered a decision sustaining the circuit court of Macon county in a decision in which Judge Ellison refused to compel the county court to issue a warrant on the general fund to pay interest due on M. & M. railroad bonds. It is held that according to the charter of the corporation the county can only levy a tax of 1-20th of one per cent to pay this indebtedness, and that it must be paid out of this special fund alone.

VOTE for Henry C. Minter.

Put it as you will, the issue is plain. The Democratic party is working for the interests of the people and the Republicans are contending for the bondholders. If there is a republican paper that can successfully defend its party against this charge, we have not seen its defense. The argument has, however, been made; the case goes to the jury on the 5th of November. The verdict is with those most interested. Let them look to their interests and vote for their friends, who are Democrats.

GENERAL COCKRELL, our honored senator, made the ablest argument in defense of Democracy, at the court house, Wednesday, it has ever been our pleasure to listen to. The "Old General" is unquestionably one of the ablest men in the state, and the sincerity and candor which have characterized his whole life was plainly visible at every point in his speech. His speech was enthusiastically received, and no doubt made many votes for the Democratic banner.

VOTE for Charles J. Via.

THE Moberly Monitor says a reasonable wage of money can be obtained that Judge Broadbent will not receive 200 votes in Randolph county. We are confident there are not fifty men in this county who have heretofore voted with the Republicans, that will vote for Broadbent. As to Democrats who have joined the third-party, they will certainly not be fooled into voting for Broadbent, when it is so plain that by so doing they will aid in the defeat of Rothwell, a genuine greenbacker, and help to elect Pollard, a pronounced hard money man. Every sincere greenback man should vote for Frank Rothwell, who has the will and ability to advance their cause.

HON. A. MACKAY, Sr.

The Democracy of this, the 6th senatorial district, have chosen Mr. Mackay as their nominee for state senator. It is needless for us to say that it is highly important, for a number of reasons, that he should be elected. First, he is a man of learning, experience, and good ability; courteous, of prepossessing appearance, and would not only make an able, influential senator, but an honest, hard-working, conscientious representative of the people. Again, in the discharge of that most responsible duty of voting for a U. S. senator, we assure our greenback friends that he will vote for a good greenback man, though we have never heard him say more than that he would vote for an honest greenback Democrat. This is a most important matter. If Mr. Hatfield is elected he will vote against any man who is a greenback advocate, as he is pledged to do. As to Mr. Phillips, the greenback nominee, he cannot possibly be elected. No reasonable man expects any such result.

This being the case either Mr. Mackay, a greenback Democrat, or Mr. Hatfield, a hard money Republican, will be called upon to discharge the duties of senator for us. Either Mackay or Hatfield must assist in the selection of a U. S. senator for us. This senator elected will work for a currency reform for us, or work for a gold aristocracy for the bondholders. Mr. Mackay will vote for a man who will labor for the people, and Mr. Hatfield will vote for a man who will labor for the bondholders. We ask all greenback men to think of this matter, and we warn them not to vote for Mr. Phillips, (who is probably a very nice gentleman) because he cannot be elected, and by voting for him you may defeat Mr. Mackay, who is in sympathy with you, and elect Mr. Hatfield, who is opposed to you. Don't fail to cast your vote for Mackay, where it will count, and our word for it you will never regret your action.

WE know there are a few men in this county who have heretofore voted with the Democrats, that intend to vote the third-party county ticket Tuesday. There are two candidates on their ticket to which we wish to call special attention. We refer to Mr. Broadbent, for congress, and Mr. Phillips, for state senator. All reasonable men recognize the fact that neither of these gentlemen have the ghost of a chance of election, the fight being between Messrs. Rothwell and Pollard for congress, and Messrs. Mackay and Hatfield for the senate. Messrs. Rothwell and Mackay are Democratic nominees, and are both greenback men. Messrs. Pollard and Hatfield are Republican nominees, and are both bondholders' hard money men. This being the case it is not the duty of every greenback man, who is a greenbacker from principle, to vote for the men they know to favor their financial views? By voting for Broadbent and Phillips you will aid in the election of Pollard and Hatfield, and if greenback men would advance their cause they will not do it.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

THE absolute third-party is fast falling to pieces, and will make an insignificant showing, is plain to every one, and privately acknowledged by all. Some honest men have been misled into the third-party. A large proportion of these, however, have discovered the trick of the cut-off movement, have seen the error of their way, and renounced their unnatural allegiance therewith. Peter Cooper sounded the bugle note, when he advised all greenback men to concentrate on two issues—the repeal of the resumption act and the substitution of greenbacks for national bank currency, which is equivalent to advising them to vote the Democratic ticket, for Democrats are a unite against these laws. Among the men who have left the third-party we find their ablest and foremost leaders; Republicans will nearly to a man vote for Pollard, but there are a few conscientious Democrats who yet remain in the mysterious meshes of absolute moneyism. With these even we have no quarrel, for we know that they really and candidly desire a currency reform the same as we are working for, the only difference being that they entertain false opinions as to the methods. We know that many more will return to the fold of Democracy before next Tuesday. We sympathize with all who sincerely desire a currency reform, and to those who are yet following the absolute delusion, we make a last appeal, and warn you not to vote against the Democratic nominees, for in so doing you will aid in the election of Pollard and Hatfield, hard money radicals, over Rothwell and Mackay, greenback Democrats, and if you do, just so sure as eternal law is just and lasting, just so sure as the great luminary of day continues to dispel the darkness of night, just so sure will you discover, when too late, that the Democrats are your true and only friends.

VOTE for Joseph M. Marsh.

According to the 2d section of the 8th article of the state constitution, every male citizen of the United States, and every male person of foreign birth, who may have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States according to law, not less than one year nor more than five years before he offers to vote, who is over the age of twenty-one years, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections by the people: 1st. He shall have resided in the state one year immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote. 2d. He shall have resided in the county, city or town where he shall offer to vote, at least sixty days immediately preceding the election. The last legislature passed the following very stringent law in regard to illegal voting: Sec. 1. Any person who shall knowingly vote at any election held in pursuance of the laws of the state or municipality thereof, when not entitled thereto, shall be held and deemed to be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a period of not less than two years or more than five years. Sec. 2. Any person who shall knowingly attempt to vote at any election held in pursuance of the laws of this state, or municipality thereof, when not entitled thereto, shall be held and deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars or more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail of the county in which such attempt was made, for a period of not less than thirty days or more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment. Sec. 3. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed. Approved March 26, 1877.

VOTE for James L. Stacy.

A GREENBACK BREAKDOWN. Seeing very plainly that few if any of the Greenback state platform agree with the National or Toledo platform, or with each other, in what they want the general government to do, and an unmistakable snuffing defeat in the political breezes, the venerable Peter Cooper, the great national highpriest and apostle of the new movement, recently issued an address to the Greenbackers of the United States suggesting two measures alone for their support. First, the repeal of the resumption act, and, secondly, the substitution of Greenbacks for national bank notes.

These and nothing more. Also that fiat money is abandoned. The test billions of irredeemable paper are abandoned. The payment of the national debt, and of the state, county, municipal and individual debts in fiat money are all given the go-by. In fact, Peter Cooper knocks a hole in the greenback hulk big enough to accommodate a country court house.

Fall into the Democratic party, gentlemen! Fall in, before it is too late, everlasting!—Columbia Statesman.

WE know there are a few men in this county who have heretofore voted with the Democrats, that intend to vote the third-party county ticket Tuesday. There are two candidates on their ticket to which we wish to call special attention. We refer to Mr. Broadbent, for congress, and Mr. Phillips, for state senator. All reasonable men recognize the fact that neither of these gentlemen have the ghost of a chance of election, the fight being between Messrs. Rothwell and Pollard for congress, and Messrs. Mackay and Hatfield for the senate. Messrs. Rothwell and Mackay are Democratic nominees, and are both greenback men. Messrs. Pollard and Hatfield are Republican nominees, and are both bondholders' hard money men. This being the case it is not the duty of every greenback man, who is a greenbacker from principle, to vote for the men they know to favor their financial views? By voting for Broadbent and Phillips you will aid in the election of Pollard and Hatfield, and if greenback men would advance their cause they will not do it.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.

VOTING is an imperative duty imposed upon every man by the first law of nature—self-protection. A man should not only vote, but do so cheerfully, always selecting the men and measures that are most identified with and most likely to serve the interests of the masses. If every man would go to the polls on election days and honestly vote for "the greatest good to the greatest number," we would soon lift our government from the cess pool of fraud and corruption in which it has been floundering for the past fifteen years, and again place it upon that high plain of purity and justice which characterized it in the good old days of the fathers. Let every man in this county think of these things seriously, and go to the polls Tuesday, not with bitter animosities harbored in his heart, but with a conscientious desire for his country's good, and there deposit his vote for the men and principles he honestly believes best calculated to further the interests of all.</